

Living In The Field

By David Hulse, D.D.

Excerpt from his upcoming book.

In the sub-atomic world of particles and waves, when we study the theory of Chaos, and the Uncertainty Principle, Newton's architectural universe comes crashing down. What we believed to be "fixed in stone" is actually a continually moving and changing field of all possibilities. As I study DNA, I find that the DNA is not "set in stone" either! Apparently, nothing is fixed and set in stone! Isn't this exciting? I tell you, life becomes an exciting adventure every single moment of every single hour of every single day! We are living in a field! An electro-magnetic field of strong and weak forces that are constantly interacting with themselves, and we are part of it! In fact, according to Heisenberg, without the observer, there is nothing to observe. We are the observer. We are critical to the overall operation of all things. Do you see how important you are?

Dr. Pert says that the DNA information molecules "are the basic units of a language used by cells throughout our body to communicate across systems such as the endocrine, neurological, gastrointestinal and even the immune system. The musical hum of the receptors as they bind to their many ligands . . . in all parts of the body . . . creates an integration of structure and function that allows the body to run smoothly and intelligently." What I am hearing here is that inside of our body there is music playing! All of our organs are inside of us humming away. Each organ hums at a certain vibration, and all of the cells of the body are humming together, making a virtual cellular symphony of music! If one of the organs gets out of tune, then we don't feel good. We get uncomfortable, we get dis-eased. Why don't we just tune it back up to its original hum! How can we do this? It is process. You are getting to know process!

Turning the Switch On

As I continued to study DNA, I learned that the assembly instructions for the human body are contained in human DNA...At each of 20 sites on the DNA, there are 'switches' which are believed to be flipped ON, producing humans with the characteristics we know. An additional 41 sites have switches which have always been in the OFF position. Many believe that if some or all of these switches could be flipped ON, an entirely new type of human would be produced, whose characteristics would include mastery over illness, disease, linear time and death, and the complete union of body, mind and spirit.

What could flip these switches to ON? You ask? I believe it is the new frequencies, the higher energy that is coming upon the Planet now. I believe with all of my heart that we can tickle these switches and get them turned on! I believe we can awaken this part of ourselves that is asleep. I believe we can make this next step in our evolution and become totally self-empowered people, walking in our own knowledge and revelation, giving to the whole of creation that part of ourselves that is unique and wonderful. We can begin the process by learning how to use the vibratory patterns produced by the six primordial sounds of the original Solfeggio tuning forks.

According to Dr. Arthur Young, man is at a stage of development right now that would be comparable to the stage of the horseshoe crab, which in the animal kingdom is the most primitive of the arthropods. So we have a long way to go. After all, in the insect world, if one part is damaged, they can grow a new one. And of course, man can't. Ants, bees, termites, and merecats have highly developed societies where each unit in the society knows its purpose and performs it. There is no competition, no scarcity and no lack in the society. The societies are non-hierarchical with complete sharing of all information. Their purposes are not based on profits, the love of money or accumulating things. Everyone's intent and desire is based upon the highest and best good of all. Yes, the human race has a long way to go!

Every single cell is more complex than the space shuttle! And every cell contains super-atomic power. Many experiments performed by John Ernst Worrell Keely demonstrated the latent power in corpuscular matter. There is enough energy contained in one cell to destroy a city, if released in a certain way. Mr. Keely learned how to liberate the etheric forces and astounded certain engineers of his day by single-handedly moving a 500 horsepower engine from one part of his shop to another simply by releasing the energies in the law of attraction and creating a process of repulsion.

There are 35,000 genes in each human DNA molecule made up of 3 billion chemical bases arranged in precise sequences. These sequences of letters (A, G, C, T) make up the language of the DNA, words, sentences, paragraphs. It is like the zero and the one of a binary code of a computer software program. Now, with the advent of quantum physics, we know that the observer is as important to the formation and function of life at the cellular level as the energy of life itself.

There is a Divine Master at the keyboard of the original software program that created you, and the Divine Master has turned the process of your life and your health over to YOU!
